NEWS of the WEEK

New York Tightens Speed Laws

New York City—Facing the two worst months of the year for motor accidents, police began enforcing the State's drastic new automobile regulations. The new law provides maximum fines of $100 or 30 days in jail for a first offense, $250 or 90 days for a second offense and $500 or 180 days, with revocation of license for a third offense. While no speed limit is fixed, any speed in excess of 40 miles per hour is presumptive evidence of reckless driving.

New Tunnel Under Hudson

New York City—The final barrier in the new vehicular tunnel between New York and New Jersey was dynamited successfully. The big bore, driven simultaneously from opposite shores for 8000 feet under the Hudson River, met within half an inch. This makes the fifth tunnel under the Hudson, the others being the Holland Vehicular Tunnel and the twin tunnels of the Hudson-Manhattan, the Pennsylvania railroad, in August 2,268,918 vehicles used the one tunnel and three bridges connecting the two states.

Republican Contest Closing

Chicago, Illinois—Entries close this week for the $500 first, $300 second and $200 third prizes offered by the Republican National Committee for the three best 200-word letters, or less, on the topic "Why I am for Roosevelt." The judge is Professor Thomas Vernon Smith of this city, and wide conjecture prevails as to just what use the Republicans intend to make of the letters after they have awarded $1000 to the winners.

Women's Hats on War-Path

Paris, France—Struck by the colorful headdress of the American Indian on her first visit to the United States, Suzanne Talbot, leading French designer, predicts that women's millinery next Spring will sport eagle's feathers after the most approved chieftain's display as shown in American museums.

Yale Hold 31%

Washington, D. C.—At the end of August, the Treasury Department has redeemed 23,574,913 soldier's bonus bonds totalling a face value of $1,204,639,300. This is 69% of the total amount of bonus bonds issued, leaving about 31% remains in the hands of veterans.

Brakes on Speed Advertising

Detroit, Michigan—Spurred by mounting country-wide casualty figures, the Automobile Manufacturers Association has adopted a resolution asking all member companies to refrain from making any reference in advertising or publicity to the maximum speed attainable by their cars. Speaking for the American Automobile Association in favor of the speed-reference ban, President Thomas P. Henry said it was "in line with the enlightened policy the industry is pursuing in its dealings with the public."

Yale Sells Football Broadcasts

New Haven, Conn.—Yale University will receive $20,000 from a game advertiser for the privilege of broadcasting six football games to be played in the Yale Bowl this Autumn. More than a dozen other colleges promptly signed contracts to produce broadcasting revenue from football contests.

Customs Inspectors Swamped

New York City—With a surge of ships returning from Europe, and other cruises over the week end, nearly 15,000 home-coming travelers swamped the port's force of customs inspectors. Teams of inspectors travel in heavier than it has been for several years.

SOUND PICTURES AND PROMINENT SPEAKERS AT REPUBLICAN RALLY

Meeting at the front of the Grange Hall last Friday evening, a large crowd witnessed the presentation of the sound picture, "The Road to Ruin with Farley and Roosevelt." This picture was a part of the program presented by the Republican Caravan, which arrived in town early Friday afternoon. The Caravan was in charge of Dr. John G. Curran who served in both the American and British navies during the World War and was decorated by the governments of France and Germany for his humanitarian service.

Following the picture nearly 300 people attended the rally in the Grange Hall, while a crowd gathered around the amplifiers in the street. Dr. John G. Curran of New York spoke briefly, stating that he did not come to Maine to tell Maine people how to vote but rather to plead with them to point the way for the rest of the nation. Dr. Curran said that the Nation is looking to Maine in the coming election for leadership. He urged voters to be consistent and not vote for candidates of one party in September and the presidential candidates of another in November. He also referred to the 1932 election year when Maine voted one way in September and another in November. The November vote came too late he said for the September vote in Maine had already "spilled the beans." Referring briefly to conditions throughout the nation Dr. Curran stated that we in Maine know little of the conditions in large cities where great gatherings are held with only the red flag of communism in view. If there isn't enough red in the American flag for aliens they should be ejected from the country, according to Dr. Curran.

MISS MARION E. MARTIN

Miss Marion Martin, state senator from Penobscot County and National Committee woman, stated that 60% of the national income now comes from hidden taxes, whereas only about 20% came from these sources in 1935. These hidden taxes, she stated, are taxes imposed upon manufacturers and wholesalers who pass the burden on to the retailer, and the retailer in turn adds it to his cost and passes it on to the consumer in higher prices.

Judge Max Pinansky of Portland likened the New Deal to a hypodermic needle. The New Deal has simply injected the pain but hasn't corrected the cause and set the needle is out and the great danger in continued use of the New Deal hypodermic needle is that we may become dope heads. Judge Pinansky stated.

The chairman of the Republican town committee, Gerard Williams, presided at the rally. All Republican candidates for county offices were on the platform except the

DEMOCRATIC RALLY AND DANCE HERE FRIDAY EVE

Hon. Philip Bucks of Washington, D. C., will be the principal speaker at a Democratic Rally at the Bethel Grange Hall at 8 o'clock tomorrow evening. A free dance will follow the rally at which time, it is understood, other speakers will be heard. Refreshments will be served. Everyone is invited, regardless of party affiliation.

ENGAGEMENT

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Miss Suzanne Sutphen Farnsworth, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. George Bourne Farnsworth, formerly of Cleveland, to Mr. E. Mark Worthen Jr., of Cambridge, Mass., son of Mrs. Frederick E. Hoamer and the late Dr. E. Mark Worthen.

Miss Farnsworth attended Miss Porter's School at Farmington. Mr. Worthen is a graduate of Harvard, class 1931.

READ BEFORE YOU VOTE

An attempt is being made to confuse the issue before you Sept. 14th. The so-called United Temperance League would have you believe that the issue is prohibition. This is not the fact. The question and the only question is—Do you want beer and liquor sold in Bethel?

Do you believe that temperance has been promoted by the sale of beer in this place?

Are the local merchants prospering because of beer?

Is it best for your boys and girls that they become steady customers of the beer parlors?

Vote as you believe

COMMUNICATION

September 3, 1938

Editor of Oxford County Citizen:

We of Bethel, are all proud of our local paper and for that reason we believe that both sides of a question will interest its readers. As two letters have recently appeared on the side of prohibition, I trust you will allow me to express my opinion on the other side.

I have lived and traveled much in Europe, to countries where beer and wine are used freely, and where drunkenness is rarely if ever seen in all the time I have spent there. I cannot recall having seen more than half a dozen men who were under the influence of liquor, and never a woman. Unfortunately it became "smart" and "funny" when liquor was prohibited in our country, to break the law I was often shocked by hearing acquaintances mention the fact that someone, otherwise respectable, was "stowed," that a hostess was so drunk that she had to be carried up stairs and put to bed. I omit the further details. Such things did NOT happen in pre-prohibition good society in the streets. It was the same, and never have I seen so many and such disgusting drunkards as during prohibition.

Habits were formed then which will take years to break. Repeat could not make over those stilled by the constant use of alcohol which they indulged in as a protest against a law impossible to enforce. Only education, along the lines of temperance as advocated in the olden times, will do the trick.

One of the things which appeared in the paper the 14th of Sept. as the "Citizen" can't seem to get the facts straight can't seem to get the facts straight. I can't seem to get the facts straight. I can't seem to get the facts straight.

EVANS NOTCH ROAD TO BE DEDICATED NEXT MONDAY

One of the principal events of the three day observance of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the Weeks national forest law, Sept. 13-15, will be the dedication of the Evans Notch Road, the CCC project between Hastings and Chatham. At 1 o'clock, standard time, a bronze tablet will be unveiled in the Hastings Clearing, at the junction of the Wild River and Evans Notch roads. It is expected that Robert E. Fechner, national director of the CCC, will be present to deliver the principal address.

CARD PARTY

The first card party of the season was held in the I. O. O. F. hall last evening. Six tables were at play. This was one of several farewell parties given in honor of Miss Electa Chapin, one of Bethel's most prominent teachers for many years. She leaves shortly for Old Orchard where she has a teaching position. Refreshments of ice cream and cake were served. The first prizes were won by Mrs. Jesse Doyen and Mrs. Alice Morgan and Jack McMillin.

MRS. LOTTIE HUTCHINSON

The community was saddened Sunday morning, Sept. 5, by the death of Mrs. Lottie Hutchinson, widow of the late Ervin Hutchinson. She had been sick for some time.

Mrs. Hutchinson was born in Bethel July 15, 1862, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus Mills. She married Ervin Hutchinson of this town and one daughter was born to them.

Besides her daughter Laura of Hebron, she leaves several brothers and sisters. She will be greatly missed by her many friends.

Funeral services were held from her late home Wednesday afternoon, conducted by Rev. R. H. Edgely of South Paris. Burial was in the family lot at Riverside cemetery.

ANTI-DIVERSION BILL OF VITAL INTEREST TO EVERY CITIZEN

The Maine Automobile Association obtained the signatures of 12,000 and voters and initiated the bill. The tenth vote at the last regular session failed to act upon it and it now comes before the people on the fifth referendum question. The ballot to be voted on at the general election Sept. 14. There is little question but that the people of Maine are opposed to the use of highway funds for other than road purposes. The motorist pays the gasoline tax and contributes to the cost of the roads and naturally he expects that money to be used only for roads. A majority of the voters may not fully understand the purpose of the bill from a hasty reading at the polls. The question as it appears on the ballot is as framed as to require an affirmative vote. The tendency in the past has been for those voters who do not understand a question to vote "no."

The bill has the support of the Maine Petroleum Industries Committee, the Maine Automobile Association, the Maine State Grange, the Commercial Motor Vehicle Association of Maine and other high way organizations. If the bill should fail to pass these to whom should be the burden of the loss? It is true that the present law is not perfect but the present law is not perfect. It is true that the present law is not perfect but the present law is not perfect.

"AS GOES MAINE"

As the day of State election draws near both Democrats and Republicans are becoming more active. Probably at no time in Maine's history have National and State issues been so confused and intertwined.

Many Democrats, feeling that they must stand or fall upon the record of the Federal Administration, are being responsible for returned prosperity. They point to this year as the most prosperous year in the history of Maine. Republicans counter that their campaign upon the National Administration. They point out that prosperity has not returned and that the national record of prosperity has been held back by the policies of the National Administration. Thus the campaign for State and National offices is being waged on the basis of the alleged success of the New Deal and by Republicans upon the alleged failure of the New Deal.

The reason for the campaign being waged upon National issues is well known. Maine has been long regarded as the "Haymarket" state of the nation. Holding her elections on other days than the national elections, the voters of this party in Maine has always looked to the voters as a harbinger of greater success to come in National and state elections. Party leaders realize that counties themselves of voters vote with the wind in every election. They realize that general public belief exists that a party which gains power in an election is going to win in a series of votes for that party's candidate in 1936 when Maine elects two Democratic Representatives and a Democratic Senator. The Republican commissioner and a Republican Senator. Thus the election is being regarded as an end in itself, the National election and the New Deal white flag campaign. The voters of this party are being misled
and the voters are being misled
and the voters are being misled.

In the coming State election the policy of the National and Federal Government will undoubtedly be the main issue. The voters of this party are being misled
and the voters are being misled
and the voters are being misled.

Democratic voters with regard to the voters of the State. The voters of this party are being misled
and the voters are being misled
and the voters are being misled.

LANDON INCREASES LEAD IN THIRD WEEK OF POLL

With a total of 350,302 votes to his credit at the close of the third week in the nation-wide Presidential poll, now being conducted by the daily and weekly newspapers, Landon continues to pull away from the field. Even though slight shifts in lead is maintained in all three of the major break down in percentage basis.

Herewith are the vote totals from 41 states so far for the six pre-

30 states and Roosevelt in 26 states.

At the end of the second week of the national state by state tabulation Landon was leading in 26 states and Roosevelt in 26 states.

This week's tabulations show Landon breaking the tie in Nebraska, to take the lead there, and also take the lead in Connecticut, Mississippi, and Montana, for a gain of four states.

The thirty states in which Landon now has a majority of votes are:
Ala., Ark., Calif., Conn., Ill., Ind., Iowa,
Kans., Ky., Maine, Md., Mass., Mich.,
Minn., Mo., Mont., Neb., N. H., N. J., N. Y., N. Dak., Ohio, Okla., Ore., Pa.,
S. Dak., Tenn., Va., Vt., Wash., W. Va., and Wis.

The majority in votes for the respective candidates, in some states at this time is exceedingly small.
The state by state tabulations will show. Also in some states, the returns are so scattered and as yet so few in number that no premise can be made as to which candidate will actually carry them in the November election.

The seven states from which returns have yet been received are:
Arizona, Georgia, Louisiana, New Mexico, Rhode Island, South Carolina and Wyoming.

Have You Voted

The Bethel Citizen is co-operating in this nation-wide poll, thus affording its readers the opportunity of showing their fellow voters in other states who we here in Bethel County and Maine prefer for President during the next four years.

All legal voters are invited to the ballot, vote it as they wish, by mail or bring it to the office of the Bethel Citizen. The local vote will be counted weekly. The ballots will then be sent on to New York for national tabulation.

Voters are under no obligation to sign their names. The space on the ballot for the name of the town or state, from which you expect to vote in November, is placed there only to assist in an accurate national tabulation at straw-vote headquarters in New York.

If you haven't yet voted in the nation-wide presidential straw-vote we suggest you do so at once. The Bethel Citizen straw-vote presidential ballot will be found on this issue of this newspaper.

The poultry industry in Maine is third in importance as a income enterprise, says Smith, poultry, economist in the Maine Extension Service. Poultry is kept as a side line or as the principal project on three out of every four farms.

Due to a changing economic situation and a gradual transition in agriculture many farmers in central and southern Maine have turned to poultry with excellent results. It is a common sight in driving through this area to see a barn which was originally built for dairy general farming converted into well arranged and spacious hen houses.

According to the 1935 census, on May 1, 1935, there were 1,518,000 chickens, 3 months old or over on Maine farms. This was 18% of the poultry in New England.

Massachusetts and Connecticut among the New England states led Maine in total numbers, with an average of 90 pounds per bird a year, this means $29,550 pounds of grain is required annually to feed Maine poultry. Nearly all this feed is purchased as Maine poultrymen raise little grain.

In 1934, Maine poultry produced 12,544,018 dozen eggs. Industries within the state as numerous summer resorts tourist trade furnished convenient local markets. Those eggs not locally were shipped, for the part, to Massachusetts. In Maine shipped 41,857 thirty-three cases of eggs to Boston, in addition to 138,842 pounds of brood poultry.

Maine poultrymen have kept cost down in cooperation with the Extension Service since 1932. For the year ending October 31, 1935, poultrymen who completed their reports received for their labor an average of $2.41 per bird. Maine raises annually a total of more than five million dollars worth of poultry products.

FINAL WARNING!!

The issue before us Sept. 14th is Community Welfare.
The sale of beer is NOT for the welfare of BETHEL!!

No community in Maine has yet received one dollar of the liquor money from the State. It has gone for MORE stores, MORE booze, MORE drunks, MORE officials, and MORE trouble.

IF you think that a list of the beer and liquor sellers is the roll of Maine's Temperance Workers you are wrong. DON'T BE FOOLED! Do you want beer and liquor in Bethel? That is the only question.

For the welfare of Bethel and our boys and girls

SUNDAY RIVER

The South Woodstock Union School Association's second reunion was held at Littlefield's Beach, Locke Mills, on Sunday, Aug. 30. It was well attended although the weather looked so stormy in the early morning. This made it possible to hold many sports as planned. Nearly everyone wanted to go in bathing. This of course took up a good deal of time but was greatly enjoyed. Horse races and croquet were enjoyed. A ball game in the afternoon. A short business meeting was held in the evening at Union School followed by a very fine program. The same officers as last year were chosen: President, George Davis; Vice President, Alanson Cummings; Secretary and Treasurer, Mary Hendrickson. The reunion next year will be held the third Sunday in July. The date has not been fully decided on but it is expected that it will be held at Littlefield's Beach, the same place as this year.

Silas Reynolds and niece, of Bath were holiday guests at J. W. Reynolds'. Mrs. Bessie Reynolds returned to Bath with them. Mr. and Mrs. L. C. O'Brien were Sunday callers at Fannie Hastings' and R. M. Fleet's. Miss Bessie Libby has gone to So. Paris. The young people will meet next time at the lower school house. Also there will be a meeting for the older folks at the same place on Friday, Aug. 11. All are invited. Charles Hastings has returned to Washington, D. C. after a week's visit at Major and Fannie Hastings'. Mrs. Joe Spinney had as holiday guests her brother and wife from Massachusetts. Roland Fleet is able to be about after his accident of two weeks ago. The Leslie Kendalls from Massachusetts are visiting friends here. Mr. and Mrs. John Nowlin and sons John and Clyde visited Alonzo Nowlin at Flagstaff. Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Lane visited the John Nowlins recently.

UPTON

The young people of the Larger Parish held a dance at the Lake House Recreation Hall Wednesday evening last week. The orchestra was from Berlin. There are many tourists passing this way and many staying at the overnight camps over the holiday. Walter Sargent of Boston was the week end guest of his mother. There was a dance at the Grange Hall, Saturday evening, with orchestra from Andover. Miss Myrtle Pratt has gone to Glenwood to teach school this year. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Pratt, H. ## REMEMBER:

AS MAINE GOES SO GOES THE NATION

This places a real responsibility on the voters of Maine, because they point the way to the rest of the Country.

It is entirely clear that to most people of this Country:

That the real issue in our Maine election of next Monday is:—

THE NEW DEAL

There can be no two ways about it—Any candidate on the Democratic ticket, unless he has openly and clearly stated that he is opposed to the New Deal, must be for it. Otherwise there is no good reason why he should be on that ticket.

At this time it is not a matter of preference for individual candidates—It is a matter of principle.

If you vote for the Democratic candidates you vote for the continuance of the New Deal with all its waste and folly.

If you vote for the Republican candidates you vote for the return to economy and constitutional government — you vote against the New Deal and that is the only way you can vote against it.

Don't be fooled — Make no mistake.

POLITICAL OPINION...

DEMOCRATIC National CommitteeBET ON ROOSEVELT IF
LONDON STAYS ON STUMP

Edward Brown, noted newspaper editor, has a friend who is willing to bet $75,000 on President Roosevelt's re-election at odds of 1 to 1. This is a certain interest-earning bet.

Despite of polls and predictions, the bet in his column the other day, "Franklin Roosevelt remains a favorite." My pet Wall Street tells me that if there was an election today, Roosevelt would be a 5 to 1 favorite. My friend further tells me that he doubts that anything but a 5 to 1 bet would be accepted. He is decidedly emotional. Shortly after the Cleveland election there was some 7 to 1 bet on Roosevelt as the victor.

Since Landon's acceptance of the price against the Kansas error has lengthened, I am accepted with one large operator. He professes to be willing to bet $10,000 on Roosevelt at odds of 1 to 1. I provided Landon makes six broadcasts over a national network. Governor Landon has talked himself from 7 to 5 to 9 to 5. If he talks the odds up into 2 to 1, his chances of the Republican will be a political long shot. In those realms there never been an upset. Hughes is the favorite who ever has been bet against, and 7 to 5 was the bet against Wilson.

ROOSEVELT AS A VOTE WINNER

The San Diego (Cal.) Herald, which was Republican for years, now is supporting President Roosevelt for re-election, reports that a decided turn of public opinion against third party movement has rebounded to the President's advantage and it credits the great attraction of Mr. Roosevelt for the development.

One of the phenomena of present day political life," says The Herald, "is the personal friends of Franklin Delano Roosevelt in his support-friends in every part of the United States who are voting for him and will vote for him simply because he is what they want."

These friends are Democrats, Socialists, Prohibitionists and Communists. They will vote for him, no doubt, in the midst of the League supporters, and thousands upon thousands of ardent supporters are for Roosevelt before they are for their own party.

But if we may, the fact remains that we are, to a great extent, a people of sentiment. For one could say: "I am for the policies of Roosevelt," we hear a hundred say simply and truthfully: "I am for Roosevelt."

In this appeal to the heart Landon is woefully lacking. Drab as his speeches, his appearances, the moving picture cameras are no more drab. He is an automaton. If there were any of the sense of humanity in him it has been suppressed out long ago in the name of Republicanism. If he were tricked, he would probably be tricked. It would be a sad day.

MORE BUSINESS NEW DEAL IS RUINING

Early all of the railroads 1936 and vigorously that they would be utterly by the new law. The Interstate Commerce Commission report indicates that the average in passenger revenue for all Eastern railroads was over 10% over July 1935.

The present management of the railroad in the United States has always and invariably had the dollar above the man. The Hearst's also in politics had to see but always the dollar above the man. "Oak and Free Press (Ind.)"

TAXES KILLING INDUSTRY

Processing taxes amounting to $2,616,000 taken from the Amoskeag Manufacturing Company, Manchester, N. H., by the New Deal in two years ruined the largest cotton textile plant in the world and forced it into final liquidation. This 132-year-old concern, succumbing to New Deal policies provided work for 9,000 workers last year, with 16,000 employed at peak operations. Where will they get jobs, on the New Deal relief rolls?

In 1933 the company paid a small profit; in 1934 it did $3,000,000 greater gross sales, but lost all profits through taxes. Then Japanese cotton shipments (produced by $3 American markets, as a result of per 55-hour-week labor) flooded the short-sighted New Deal policies.

A Government tax broke the camel's back. Records show 1,000,000 American spindles were "scraped" last year. 1,500,000 more are shut down this year. How long will the inexperienced brain-trusters at Washington continue to "run" American industry of which they know nothing at all?

ROOSEVELT AND RECOVERY

If the Roosevelt administration wishes credit for everything that goes by the name of recovery it might also explain why it has failed to make any substantial progress in reducing the number of the unemployed. Why where there 12,184,000 unemployed persons according to the American Federation of Labor figures still looking for work in March 1936? After three years and the expenditure of $25,000,000,000 the number of unemployed was but little below the March, 1933 figures. Why were there 5,200,000 families and individuals on relief in March, 1936, in contrast to 3,500,000 in July 1933?

Why did the United States rank only thirteenth among the leading nations of the world, when recovery is measured in terms of industrial production in March, 1936? Industrial production in the United States was still 21.8% below its March 1929 level in the same month in 1936. Japan, Finland, Chile, Estonia, Hungary, the United Kingdom and Norway, in the same period, showed an increase ranging from 11 to 50% in their industrial production. The Roosevelt administration must be credited with full responsibility for these costly shortcomings and failures. —Minneapolis Tribune.

This table, covering the expenses of the sheriff's department for the year 1935, inclusive, was compiled by a public accountant from the official records of the department and the clerk of courts. The years 1925 and 1926 were the years of the lowest expenses under Republican administration. The years 1931 to 1936 were the years of the highest expenses under Democratic administration. The figures in the table show the net expense to the taxpayer for the sheriff's department and other expenses for the year 1935. These figures well and vote for economy in the sheriff's department and other expenses by voting for the Republican candidate.

MAINE FARM DEBT LOWER

A smaller number of American farms are under mortgage today than before the depression, and in some the total farm mortgage debt is smaller, according to figures released by the Farm Credit Administration.

Although the Farm Credit Administration has loaned over $200,000,000 on farm mortgages in Maine since May 1933, approximately 90% of the money was used to finance old debts so that very little new indebtedness was incurred. The farm mortgage debt in the state which increased from $13,000,000 in 1910 to $24,820,000 in January 1, 1935. Figures for the earlier year dropped to $23,700,000 on January 1, 1936, and the 1935 figure is an estimate of the Farm Credit Administration.

Compared with previous periods, the recent farm mortgage debt is not unusual, the statement from the Farm Credit Administration points out. During periods of high income, the farm mortgage debt in the United States increases; and tends to contract in periods of depression. The increase in sales in times of higher income, and higher prices for farm land, tends to increase the farm mortgage debt because new purchasers frequently give a mortgage for part of the purchase price. The shrinkage in the mortgage debt during the depression was partly due to foreclosures, partly to repayments, and some taking down of debts by creditors. The amount of debts scaled down in connection with farm debt refinancing under the Farm Credit Administration was approximately $15,000,000 in Maine.

Lower interest payments have also helped to improve the mortgaged farmer's position. In the country as a whole, the percentage of gross farm income required to pay interest on mortgage debt increased from 4.6% in 1929 to 9.6% in 1932, but by 1935 it dropped to 4.5%, the lowest level in ten years.

Maine farmers have benefited additionally by the recent trend toward lower interest rates. Those financed by the Farm Credit Administration have been paying interest rates averaging 6.4% a year. These farmers are now paying 4 to 5% with a temporary reduction to 3% for interest payable during the year ending June 30, 1937 on Federal land bank loans made through national farm loan associations. Maine farmers saved over $1,000,000 a year on interest by refinancing old debts with the Farm Credit Administration, and a substantial additional saving results from the temporary interest reduction provided by Congress on Federal land bank loans.

With conditions of entry carefully specified, a portion of the public land will again be available for homesteading. All public land has been withdrawn from entry for more than a year.

The Double Menace of Bureaucracy

By RAYMOND PITCAIRN
National Chairman
Sentinel of the Republic

At least three expeditions are now exploring the tangled forests of Bureaucracy which have sprung up on the banks of the Potomac during recent years.

A special Senatorial Committee, a group of American Bar Association members, and an independent fact-finding agency are among the explorers who seek to clear that maze of overlapping agencies, bureaus and commissions.

All are enlisted in war on the waste which duplication of political activities and of political jobs inevitably breeds. By eliminating many of the useless and tax-eating new Federal agencies they hope to reduce the slice which government is cutting out of the taxpayers' earnings and savings.

But it isn't the taxpayers' pocket-book alone that is endangered by these hordes of new bureaucrats and new commissions. The real menace is even more serious.

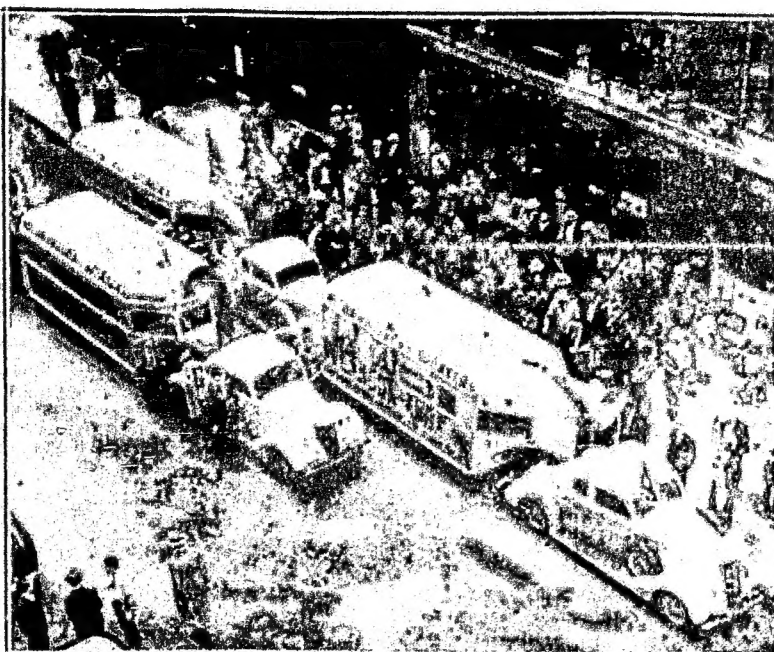

By usurping the powers reserved under the Constitution to the people, the legislators and the Courts, such alphabetical agencies have developed into a serious threat to the rights of civil liberty and self-government on which this Nation was founded.

To them is due that interference by Federal authorities with the normal activities of our citizens, which is arousing nation-wide protest.

From their offices emerge the thousands of agents who seek to interfere with, direct and mould the people according to the newer bureaucratic ideas of agriculture, business and living in general.

If the various groups which seek to reduce the number of arrogant and extravagant bureaucratic agencies now reaching out from Washington can ease the burden on the pocket-book of the American taxpayer they will have performed a great service.

But if, by eliminating many of Bureaucracy's inroads on the rights of the American citizen, they can protect our constitutional guarantees and privileges, they will have performed a still greater and more significant one.

Left alone, Elsha gloomily pursued his way to his own cottage and entering it by the side door passed through the back hall and upstairs.

Going to the closet, he took out his Sunday suit, shook it, and with the air of one making ready his shroud, spread it open the bed.

Next he produced a boiled shirt, a collar, and a black tie.

It took him some time to assemble these infrequently used accessories.

He went downstairs to hunt up his badge and handcuffs. These he kept in the drawer of the tall secretary in the sitting room. To his consternation, the drawer was empty!

And not only was it empty but it had been left open as if a marauder possessed of sticky hands had hastily abandoned it.

Convinced to believe the articles were gone, Elsha peered feverishly into every corner the piece of furniture occupied. But beyond a thick coating of dust, nothing rewarded his search.

At length, as a last resort, he reluctantly admitted to May Ellen.

"What's up?"

"My Ellen, what's been happenin' this mornin'?" asked Elsha of the office that ought to be in it, ain't it? "I've lost my badge and handcuffs."

"Where on earth? You don't tell me a shiner's been committed in Wilton? I guess it's the first time in all the town's history. What's the story?"

"I'll tell you the whole commotion."

"You mustn't peep about this outside, May Ellen," Elsha said.

"You Mustn't Peep About This Outside, May Ellen"

"What was you to do and of last night? The criminal was out at large and we want to trap him here to get him."

"Now look the badge and handcuffs. You see how important it is to find them? They were in the drawer and the whole place is covered up with dust. I guess some person who had no business to be there had got into it."

"The constable Tommy Johnson," interrupted May Ellen, "has a key to the keyhole. He can open it and see what's in there."

"I'll ask him to do so," Elsha said. "I'll ask him to do so."

"I'll ask him to do so," Elsha said. "I'll ask him to do so."

"I'll ask him to do so," Elsha said. "I'll ask him to do so."

"I'll ask him to do so," Elsha said. "I'll ask him to do so."

"I'll ask him to do so," Elsha said. "I'll ask him to do so."

out under the apple trees. "S'pose we have a look there."

Almost beside himself with an indignation he dared not voice, Elsha followed May Ellen out of doors.

Yes, trampled into the sodden ground lay the badge. There, too, lay the handcuffs, tightly snapped together and without a trace of a key to unlock them.

Elsha dubiously eyed the muddy objects. Well, at least, thought he, everything was not lost. He had gained time.

To wear his badge until a new pin was soldered to it was out of the question. In addition, the handcuffs were of no use at all unless a key could be found to unlock them.

As he turned to re-enter the house, Elsha halted him.

"I've had the deed of a time with this revolver," announced he, pointing into the yard and jauntily flourishing his weapon. Then regarding his comrade's greenish countenance, he remarked abruptly, "Say, what's the matter with you, 'Lish'?"

Elsha told his story.

"Well, if that ain't the ole Harry!" fumed Elsha. "That's goin' to tell us all up. There's no use doin' this thing if it ain't done in bang-up style. We got to get that badge soldered on them handcuffs unlocked 'fore another move can be made. I s'pose mebbe Nate Harlow over to Belleport could help us out."

"An' go blabbin' all over town the predicament the Wilton sheriff was in? No—no—no! Not if I know it. The only thing to do is to motor to Sawyer Falls and hunt up Pete McGrath, the blacksmith. He's a wizard with tools. I never knew no job to stump him yet. He'll know what to do."

Accordingly the two men set forth on their errand.

They rode in uncomfortable silence until the white spire of the Sawyer Falls church appeared and, rounding the bend of the road, the car rolled into the town.

The small shed where the forge stood was close by the railroad tracks and as he pulled up before it, Elsha spotted through its doorway not only Peter McGrath, the blacksmith, but also the rotund figure of Artie Nickerson, the Sawyer Falls station agent.

They went in and after the usual greetings, Elsha stated his errand. McGrath took the handcuffs and badge to the light and examined them.

"Humph! Looks as if you'd been in some sort of a scrimmage," he commented. "For I'll start on 'em straight away. I ain't know nothin' 'bout that badge be put on 'em."

Elsha and Elsha stared over to a town and then to wait.

"How are you, Artie?" Elsha inquired. "Say, didn't you take a notion of a cabin excelled with a good fire?"

"I'll tell you about it," Elsha said. "I'll tell you about it."

"I'll tell you about it," Elsha said. "I'll tell you about it."

"I'll tell you about it," Elsha said. "I'll tell you about it."

"I'll tell you about it," Elsha said. "I'll tell you about it."

created a sensation, beamed broadly.

"Course I ain't permitted to divulge messages that go through my hands. They're confidential. But for that I could tell you somethin' that would make your eyes peep out their sockets."

"Somethin' about Heath?"

"Somethin' he said in a telegram."

Elsha had an inspiration. "S'pose I was to ask you official-ly?" he suggested. "S'pose it's important for me to know what was in that message? S'pose I demanded you tell me in the name of the law? I'm askin' you as sheriff of the town of Wilton."

"Oh, that's different. The wire was just sent to a friend. The part that astonished me was its beginning. It ran somethin' like this: 'Safe on Cape with my lady. Shall return with her later.'"

"What interested me," droned Artie, "was who this lady could be. Heath, apparently, is a married man. What business has he taggin' after some Wilton woman an' toin' her back to New York with him when he goes?"

"He ain't got no business doin' it," Elsha shouted. "He's a black-guard—that's what he is! But don't you worry, Artie. He ain't goin' to put no such scurvy trick over on any Wilton woman. Me an' 'Lish' see to that. How much more thakin' have you got to do on them trinkets, Pete? The sheriff an' me is in a hurry to get home."

"You'll have to give me a good half hour more."

"That'll mean we won't fetch up at Wilton 'till after dark," Elsha fretted.

"There's no use goin' up in the air an' rilin' Pete all up, Elsha," Elsha intervened. "We'll just have to be patient an' put off what we was plannin' to do until tomorrow. I reckon mornin' will be a better time, anyway. Certainly 'till do just as well."

"Mebbe," Elsha grumbled. "Still, I'm disappointed. Well, that bein' the case, s'pose you an' me step over to the drug store while we're hangin' round an' do them errands we mentioned."

Elsha agreed.

A faint flush had crept back into his cheeks and his eyes had regained their light of hope.

He had wrestled from Fate another twelve hours of life, and life was sweet.

IT LOOKS JUST LIKE ICE SKATING, BUT ISN'T

This is the newest diversion in roller skating as practiced on smooth concrete rinks in Paris. The skates are built exactly like ice-skates, but the skating edge of the blade consists of scores of little ball-bearings, giving all the effect of gliding over ice without its chill. It permits graceful figure skating.
